Linguistics

Peter Trudgill: Received pronunciation: Sociolinguistic aspects ....................... 3
James Milroy: Received pronunciation: Who “receives” it and how long will it be “received”? ........................................................................................................... 15
Joanna Przedlacka: Estuary English and RP: Some recent findings ........ 35
Marcin Krygier: Reconsidering the history of the English verbal system .... 51
Elżbieta Adamczyk: Old English reflexes of Sievers’ Law ....................... 61 Antonio Bertacca: Naturalness, markedness and the productivity of the Old English a-declension .................................................................................................. 73 Jerzy Welna: Suppletion for suppletion, or the replacement of ēode by went in English .................................................................................................................... 95
Concha Castillo: On the non-expressed object of Old English infinitives . 111
Joanna Kopaczyk: The Scots - Northern English continuum of marking noun plurality ....................................................................................................................... 131 Kenneth Shields, Jr.: On the origin of the English diminutive suffix -y, - ie ........................................................................................................................................ 141
Juan C. Conde-Silvestre: The code and context of Monasteriales Indicia:
A semiotic analysis of late Anglo-Saxon monastic sign language .......... 145
Teresa Moralejo-Garate: Composite predicates and idiomatisation in Middle English: A corpus-based approach ................................................................. 171 Elżbieta Górska: Recent derivatives with the suffix -less: A change in progress within the category of English private adjectives? ..................... 189
John Newman: A corpus-based study of the figure and ground insitting, standing, and lying constructions ................................................................. 203
Heli Tissari: Metaphors we love by: On the cognitive metaphors of LOVE from the 15th century to the present ........................................................................... 217
Hanna Rutkowska: Ortography in the Cely letters ............................................. 243

Literature

Liliana Sikorska: The construction of power and pride in the framework of political allegory in the Middle English <Pride of life ............................ 265 Władysław Witalisz: Orality and literacy in Middle English religious literature on the example of medieval lives of Christ ............................... 275 Andrzej Wicher: The idea of cultural continuity in G. Chaucer’s House of fame ................................................................................................................................. 289 Marek Wilczyński: From Edwards to Slosson: Typology, nature and The New England domestic gothic ................................................................................. 303
Marcin Turski: Intertextual competence: The reader’s key to the treasure . 311
REVIEWS

MINAKO NAKAYASU: Gender communication. By Satoko Hamamoto .......... 328