

Programme
Full-time undergraduate studies,
English Philology
specialisation: Celtic Studies
Since 2013/2014

Undergraduate studies, Celtic specialisation, lasts 6 semesters. The programme includes lectures, classes, tutorials and seminars. Students are required to complete teaching practices. There are obligatory and supplementary courses, as well as electives listed in the programme. Once selected, a given course has to be finished with a credit. Apart from the courses listed in the grid below, students need to complete a course on Occupational Health and Safety, and an e-learning Library Course. They are also required to take part in entrepreneurship workshops.

A student graduates having scored 180 ECTS credit points (60 ECTS points for each year of studies), and is awarded the degree of licencjat (bachelor's degree)

The tables below contain details on the number of teaching hours, course type, credit form and the number of ECTS points. Each course ends with a grade.

Symbols used in the tables:

c – classes
