

Department of American Literature and Department of English Literature and Literary Linguistics of AMU School of English invite everyone to a lecture on

Contemporary American Drama: Defined and Redefined

by

Prof. Eileen Herrmann-Miller

Dominican University of California, San Rafael, USA

28th January 2011 (Friday)

9:45 a.m.

room C1, Collegium Novum

The lecture outlines the origins of contemporary American drama at the beginning of the twentieth century, and traces its development by focusing on two of the American theatre's fixations: the "American Dream" and the "family." Dramatists discussed include Eugene O'Neill, Tennessee Williams, Arthur Miller and August Wilson.