The Faculty of English of Adam Mickiewicz University continues the traditions and legacy of The Adam Mickiewicz University School of English, which was the largest centre of English studies in Poland and all Europe, priding itself on extensive experience in teaching and significant research achievements. The Faculty of English is the first institution of this kind in Poland.

The Faculty of English is located in the heart of Poznań, in Collegium Novum. Classes also take place in Collegium Chemicum at 6 Grunwaldzka St. The Faculty’s principal facilities are conveniently situated close to the main university building (Collegium Minus) and the University Concert Hall, cultural and arts centres (Zamek Culture Centre, museums, galleries), bus and train stations, shopping malls, numerous cafés, clubs, cinemas, and theatres.

In 2014 the Faculty of English was granted the “Friendly Dean’s Office” award by the AMU Parliament of Student Self-Government for the most competent administration.

The Faculty of English cooperates with a number of business companies and cultural institutions. Every year, together with the AMU Careers Office we organize a job fair “Career in Languages” for our students and graduates. In 2015 our students won the first and second prizes for their business proposals in a competition organized by the InQubator of the Poznań Science and Technology Park of the AMU Foundation.

The Faculty of English is open to its environment. Our staff and students organize many open events such as Open Lectures, Researchers’ Nights, Festivals of Art and Science, thematic days and weeks. We also actively participate in AMU projects for primary and secondary school students, e.g. Colorful University or University in Your School.
